Please and Thank You

Are basic manners (such as saying, “Please and “Thank you”) old-fashioned and a thing of the past? Why is it that adults have a hard time expressing appreciation for things they have been given?

Zig Ziglar has some interesting thoughts:

“Of all the things a parent can teach a child, manners rates very close to the top of the “must teach” list. Number one, when a child is taught, from the time he or she can talk to say “thank you” you are teaching that child thankfulness. Number two, the insertion of the word “please” in a request changes the child from a demanding person to one who accepts the fact that when they ask a favor or make a request, the parent has no automatic obligation to respond favorably to that request. Response to “please” is much better than the “get this for me” demand type of approach. The child must be taught the idea that they must first serve before they can earn the right to command.”

Being kind, courteous, and grateful will never go out of style or become old-fashioned. Let us strive to be gracious, respectful, and considerate of all with whom we come in contact. And may we always count our blessings—being grateful to our heavenly Father for His love and mercy.

“Be kind to one another, tenderhearted, forgiving one another, as God in Christ forgave you” (Eph. 4:32).

“Give thank in all circumstances; for this is the will of God in Christ Jesus for you” (1 Thess. 5:18).

An Awesome Responsibility

At one point during a game, the coach said to one of his young players, "Do you understand what cooperation is and what teamwork is all about?" The little boy nodded in the affirmative.

"Do you understand that what really matters is not whether we win or lose, but that we play together as a team?" The little boy nodded yes.

"Good," the coach continued. "And, when a strike is called, or you're thrown out at first, you don't argue, curse, attack the umpire with a bat, or throw dirt in the opposing team member's faces. Do you understand all that?"

Again the little boy nodded, "Well, sure, coach. That's what you taught us."

"Good," said the coach. "Now, please go over there and explain all that to your parents."

Have you been to a Little League game when the above conversation needed to take place? It's sad to see parents who act in an irresponsible manner because they are teaching their children (and others' children) to behave in a similar manner.

God has given those of us who are parents an awesome responsibility: not only to teach our children what is right, but to live in such a way that they can see that we are willing to practice what we've been teaching them to do.

Moses told the parents of Israel to take the laws which God had given them and "teach them diligently to your children..." (Deut. 6:7). But before telling parents to do that, he warned them, "Therefore hear, O Israel, and be careful to observe it" (Deut. 6:3)

Before we can teach a love of God and others to our children, it must be in our own hearts. May God bless those of you who are parents as you strive to do just that. May your life be so filled with a desire to follow God that your children will be open to hear all that you have to say to them.

Message from Susan: We are in the midst of cold and flu season. In an effort to keep our church nursery germ free, we ask that older kiddos and teens stay out of that area at all times through the week. Only nursery workers and children under their care should be in the nursery. Let's keep our Beulah babies healthy!

Talking To God

A man was taking it easy, laying on the grass and looking up at the clouds. He was identifying shapes when he decided to talk to God.

"God," he said, "how long is a million years?"

God answered, "In my frame of reference, it's about a minute."

The man asked, "God, how much is a million dollars?"

God answered, "To me, it's a penny."

The man then asked, "God, can I have a penny?"

God answered, "In a minute."

Grandpa's Well-Worn Bible

My grandfather, a wonderful Christian and professor at the Bible College, died just a month ago. Today, I learned something wonderful about the influence of grandpa's life.

When I got to church this morning, my friend Chris came up and gave me a big hug. She had tears in her eyes. I knew she had something on her heart. Then she told me a wonderful story.

When my grandpa and grandma moved out of their house on Lyle Drive, Chris, her husband Jose, and their 3 boys moved in. They rented the house for four years. While there, Jose, (Chris' husband) made a discovery. In Grandpa's old office, hidden away in a bookshelf was a well-worn Bible.

Now, Jose was not a Christian at that time. It was hard on their marriage, which was rocky at best. Chris was called to work in the children's ministry at her church, but her husband was an unbeliever.

But Jose found my grandpa's Bible. As he turned the pages, he was amazed. The margins of the Bible were filled with notes. I know this is true. All of Grandpa's Bibles were filled with notes. He would fill up one Bible and get another.

In this old Bible, the margins were filled with prayers for family members, dates and notes about what was happening in his life, how God had touched him, there were even sermon notes. Jose said that on every page there was something underlined. Jose's response to this was "this Bible had been loved on."

He realized that the person who had that Bible had a dynamic relationship with Jesus. It touched him in a deep way. Only a few days after finding that Bible, fifteen years into his marriage, Jose knelt with his wife in the living room of my grandpa and grandma's old house. Jose asked Jesus to be his Lord and Savior. Jose had seen Grandpa's spiritual home in the margins of that old Bible. He wanted a home like that.
