*Blessed are the people to whom such blessings fall!
Blessed are the people whose God is the Lord! – Psalm 144:15 ESV*

There is a buzz of expectation around the FEBC these days. If you talk to a Director or staff member, you are likely to perceive excitement and anticipation about what God has in store. That's because we are changing as an organization. Some of these changes are fairly new and others have been in the planning stages for many years. Some are big changes and others small, but it is exciting to dream about what God has in store...

Your church leaders have already received proposed revisions to our Constitution which are scheduled to be ratified at Connect19 in July. Many of the proposed changes are specifically intended to make us better at what we do. We seek to make churches more effective, and we want to be good at this for years to come, so we have proposed amendments that will free us to be more responsive to our changing society while maintaining wise boundaries.

Meanwhile, if you visit our International Offices in Omaha you will find us getting an office cleaned up and rearranged for our new Ministries Coordinator – who should be joining us within the next month. The dream of providing better services and resources to our member churches is finally becoming a reality! We will soon have a full-time pastor whose main job is to develop helpful resources and provide those resources and other assistance to churches.

Slowly but surely, we are working to update all of our policies, procedures and documents. We are working to update our website and other publications. We are moving forward with a fresh desire to be as relevant and beneficial as possible.

As I said... there's a buzz of expectation. We hope that you can share in that expectation and excitement, and that you feel confident that your gifts to the FEBC will be used powerfully by God. We give him all of the glory, and we give you thanks for your prayers and support.

Serving Him together,

Kevin Stone
