The Greenhouse of the Heart

by Max Lucado

Proverbs 4:23 advises us, "Above all else, guard your heart, for it is the wellspring of life." Think of your heart as a greenhouse and consider your thoughts as seed. We must be selective about the seeds we allow to come into the greenhouse.

To have a pure heart, we must submit all thoughts to the authority of Christ. You see, your mind is the doorway to your heart. The Holy Spirit stands with you on the threshold, helping you manage and filter the thoughts that try to enter. If Jesus agrees with the thought, then let it in. If not, kick it out. How do you know if Jesus agrees or disagrees? You open your Bible. Armed with the opinion of Christ and the sword of the Spirit, guard the doorway of your heart. The more selec-

The Pure Heart of a Stranger

It was late at night, around 11pm. Thea was looking uneasy at the subway station. She was waiting for the last train to arrive, when she heard her phone ring. It was her brother. The line was suddenly cut off when she answered, and the phone did not ring again. Thea waited for a call back, but her phone did not ring. She sat on the bench, holding her phone. She was definitely uneasy and paranoid. She was looking around for a way to charge her phone, but saw no outlets. She had no choice but to wait until the train arrived and then wait until she got back home to charge her phone.

A young lady in her late 20's approached Thea and asked her is something was wrong. Thea looked at the stranger's eyes and said, "Nothing". But the other lady was just so sincere and wanted to help. She took out her cell phone from her shoulder bag and handed it to Thea. The helpful lady said, "Here's my phone, it is fully charged. You can use it to make a call." She looked directly into Thea's eyes.

Then Thea, in a very shy manner, slowly called a number. In no time, a smile was on Thea's face. "Thank you so much, you took my worries away," she told the stranger.

"No worries! It was not me who took your worries away, it was HIM!" Christianity can be shared at any time and in any place. Sharing God's love and touching hearts are characteristics of a pure heart.

We Can All Be Sunday Worship Greeters!

Everyone should greet one another in love. In addition, we are asking people to sign up so we can have people assigned to serve in a specific greeter role. This is important, especially for the purpose of greeting new-comers and offering them information that visitors need.

Thank you to those who have already signed up! Everyone is encouraged to sign up at the Welcome Center.

Learn & Grow by Tackling Life's Difficulties

A young boy wanted to learn how to play the flute. He went to the flute teacher and inquired about the price of lessons. "Ten gold pieces for the first lesson," said the teacher, "and one gold piece for each lesson thereafter."

"Good," said the boy. "I'll start with the second lesson."

Do you recognize yourself in that young boy? Do you often want to bypass what is costly and take the easiest route? In his book The Road Less Traveled, psychiatrist Scott Peck points out that our emotional well-being and personal growth are often determined by our ability to face what is difficult instead of skirting around it.

We have all had first flute lessons that we would have liked to avoid. But today, remind yourself that tackling what is difficult in life is God's way of helping you learn, grow and become.

Teach me to welcome problems in my life as an opportunity to grow.

MEDICINE CHEST

For the blues, read Psalm 27.
For an empty purse, read Psalm 37.
If discouraged about work, Psalm 128.
If people seem unkind to you, John 15.
If you cannot have your own way, James 3.
If you are all out of sorts, Hebrews 12.
For a traveling companion, Psalm 121.
If you are losing confidence in people, I Corinthians 13.
