Ephesus is one of the best reconstructed Greco-Roman cities in the world, and was once the hub of Christianity in Anatolia (modern Turkey). This impressive city was not only one of the seven churches mentioned in the book of Revelation but was also the headquarters of Paul's three-year ministry to the roman province of Asia. From here Paul wrote his first letter to the Corinthians and in Ephesus's theater the infamous riot recorded in the Book of Acts broke out against the Christians. Here too, the Apostle John traditionally wrote his Gospel and epistles and where he spent the last days of his life after returning from exile on Patmos. Ephesus was the launching point for the gospel's continuous expansion into the western world. For decades biblical Turkey has been the focus of study for distinguished historians, Dr. Mark Wilson and Dr. Andrew Jackson. Now these old friends reunite and travel together on the road to Ephesus. Along the way they share their combined historical, archeological and biblical expertise to bring the scriptures to life for modern believers.

Walk in the steps of the apostles along ancient Roman streets and pass through marble gates into the wonderfully excavated city of Ephesus whose extensive ruins resound with millenia of history. Take an excursion by boat to the Isle of Patmos where Christ revealed his apocalyptic vision of the end of days. Visit the ruins of pagan temples once dedicated to the gods of Greece and Rome and explore a hidden cave where early Christian believers worshipped the one God.

Making up about 20 percent of the world's population, the Chinese are a great people who can boast a history going back more than 5,000 years. However, because of the Chinese diaspora and the cultural revolution of the early 1960's, many Chinese have only a very vague idea of their history, culture, and traditions. Who are the Chinese? is a film that takes you into the deep cultural and spiritual roots of the Chinese people. Filmed in six locations across the world, this production provides those searching for the roots of Chinese history a well-researched documentary with a few surprises. Some scholars have found echoes of the Biblical Genesis account in the characters of the Chinese language. There are also those who have found reason to equate the Chinese god ShangDi with El Shaddai, one of the names for the God of the Bible. Is there evidence for ancient biblical origins in the Chinese culture? Who are the Chinese seeks to answer these absorbing questions as it provides insight into one of the most ancient civilizations on earth. Produced by cultural researcher Reggie Lee, this film is a result of a ten-year research into the past of the Chinese. Believing that many Chinese have lost an understanding of their illustrious history and deep-rooted culture, he attempts to bring this alive through a film tracing the early roots of the Chinese to the present day. Also featured are the personal stories of several Chinese who have come to faith in Christ.

This informative film by Malcolm Hossick uncovers the background history from which Dante came and the way in which he helped to establish a new view of the world where individuals mattered more than rulers.

Without the changes begun in Dante's time it is difficult to see how the democratic system which is now spreading across human society would have become so well established.

Of course, democratic success depends entirely on the quality of the people who run it, and in Dante's visit to the underworld we see that humanity is as capable of behaving badly as achieving great things for society.
