She Makes It Personal

The story is told that Steinberg, the artist, struck with the beauty of a gypsy girl, took her to his studio and frequently had her sit for him. At the time he was at his masterpiece, "Christ on the Cross". The girl used to watch him work on this painting. One day she said to him, "He must have been a very wicked man to be nailed to a cross like that." "No," said the painter, "On the contrary, he was a very good man, the best man that ever lived. He died for others."

The little girl looked up at him and asked. "Did he die for you?" Steinberg was not a Christian at the time, but the gypsy girl's question touched his heart and awakened his conscience and he became a believer in Him whose dying passion he had so well portrayed.
