Short Stories of Tribute to Mom (copied from Reader's Digest)

PAY IT FORWARD

by Teresa Martin, North Aurora, Illinois

You reap what you sow: In her old country, my mom saw a very poor blind woman with her young daughter. She felt sorry for them and loaned them all her savings. Although Mom was worried sick about it, they miraculously returned every cent. Two decades later, when Mom left her Communist country and came to America as a refugee, a local church gave her money to feed her many children. She returned them every single cent, and her children continued to pay back through worldwide charities. Mom is now 90 years old and has a richly blessed life.

THE NEED NEVER GOES AWAY

by Saman Rahman, Peshawar, Pakistan

"Mommy, you are a fairy," I said. My mother laughed like tinkling bells. "I am serious, Mother. You know everything." "My child, I try to answer as best as I can. When you grow older, you will not need me," she said. "No, Mom, I will always need you. Nothing can change that," I said. Her words echo in my heart as I look at the blue sky: "Dear daughter, nothing remains the same except the vast blue sky." It has been ten years since I lost my fairy. Mom, you were wrong about one thing: I still need you.

A STAND-UP WOMAN

by Robin Hynes, Slingerland, New York

My mom had a great sense of humor and a knack for making everything fun. One thing that resonated with me, even as a small child, was how much she seemed to enjoy her own company and found ways to entertain herself. As a kid, I remember her giggling while paying bills. What was so funny about bill paying? She would put humorous notes in the reference section of the check: For the electric bill, she might put "You light up my life," and for the mortgage she'd write "Four shingles closer to owning it all."

A Mother's Scar

(From Chicken Soup For the Mother's Soul)

A mother was invited to attend parents' day at her son's elementary school. To the little boy's dismay, his mother decided that she would go. This would be the first time that his classmates and teacher met his mother and he was embarrassed by her appearance. Although she was a beautiful woman, there was a severe scar that covered nearly the entire right side of her face. The boy never wanted to talk about why or how she got the scar.

At the conference, the people were impressed by the kindness and natural beauty of his mother, despite the scar, but the little boy was still embarrassed and hid himself from everyone. He did, however, get within earshot of a conversation between his mother and his teacher, and heard them speaking. "How did you get the scar on your face?" the teacher asked. The mother replied, "When my son was a baby, he was in a room that caught on fire. Everyone was too afraid to go in because the fire was out of control, so I went in. As I was running toward his crib, I saw a beam coming down and I placed myself over him, trying to shield him. I was knocked unconscious but, fortunately, a fireman came in and saved both of us." She touched the burned side of her face. "This scar will be permanent, but to this day, I have never regretted doing what I did."

At this point, the little boy came out running toward his mother with tears in his eyes. He hugged her and felt an overwhelming sense of the sacrifice that his mother had made for him. He held her hand tightly for the rest of the day.

In like manner, Jesus Christ bears the scars He received in His efforts to redeem us. "Thanks be to God for His indescribable gift!"
—2 Cor. 9:15
