"Uncertain Times"

News outlets continue to remind us that we are in "Uncertain Times". We know these are "Uncertain Times". We have been challenged socially, physically, financially, and spiritually.

In these "Uncertain Times", we find ourselves wrestling with questions and tasks to which, in previous years, we would not have given a second thought. Is it safe to grocery shop? Where has all the toilet paper gone? When can we worship in church again? Can family members visit without worrying about getting sick?

In these "Uncertain Times", we must "socially distance" ourselves from society, including our neighbors, friends, and families. "Social distancing" is difficult but essential for our well-being. We miss hand shakes, hugs and other social expressions of love for our neighbor, friends, and family.

In these "Uncertain Times", our physical well-being is threatened simply by a quick trip to the grocery store. Many of us have factors that put us at a higher risk like diabetes, heart condition, respiratory troubles, and other factors that come with aging, environmental conditions, and family history.

In these "Uncertain Times", financial stability, for many, has become a concern. If this were not the case, our states would not have reopened so quickly. Some individuals were retiring or making a major purchase or paying off their mortgage. Plans are on hold, waiting on a more stable future.

In these "Uncertain Times", our spiritual well-being has been affected because we have been unable to worship together as an entire community of faith. We long to get together and ask the question, "When can we safely return to worship?"

Some ask, "Where is God in all of this?" Be assured that God is in the middle of it all. During this pandemic, blessings we once took for granted, now appreciate more.

In these "Uncertain Times", The South Carolina United Methodist Foundation has remained committed to fulfilling our mission to help fund a variety of ministries for United Methodist Churches and United Methodist Organizations. We work with local churches in establishing endowment funds that help create future certainty in this "uncertain time." Through the generosity of so many, the Foundation provides scholarship awards to hard working seminary students. The recipients of these scholarships and the Fund from which the scholarships were made are listed in this newsletter.

Yes, these are "Uncertain Times" but hasn't life always been uncertain? There is only one thing for certain and that is God is our strength and our shield (Psalm 28:7) and that God is our Shepherd (Psalm 23:1) who leads us through "Uncertain Times" to a place of certainty- God's presence.

Remember, no matter the social, physical, financial and spiritual challenges in these "Uncertain Times", our God is a God of certainty and is with us always. Embrace God's strength, stay safe behind God's shield (and our masks) and follow our faithful Shepherd.

Faithfully, In Christ,

Robert M. Vincent

Information About Giving to the Foundation

The South Carolina United Methodist Foundation welcomes gifts and bequests in any amount for its general and designated endowment funds.

Gifts should be mailed to the Foundation at P. O. Box 5087, Columbia, South Carolina 29250-5087. Gifts received by the Foundation are always promptly receipted and acknowledged. Checks should be made payable to the South Carolina United Methodist Foundation and marked for the particular Fund to which the gift is directed.

Undesignated gifts are placed in the Foundation's General Endowment Fund which benefits all of the Institutional Members of the Foundation equally.

Gifts "in honor of" or "in memory of" others are appropriate and welcomed. The Foundation is happy to send notification of honor or memorial gifts when requested to do so and information is supplied.

For information about establishing a planned gift such as a bequest or a designated endowment fund with the Foundation, contact the President, the Reverend Robert M. Vincent, by telephone at 803/771-9125 or by email at scumf@bellsouth.net. The Foundation office is located in the Administration Building at Epworth Children's Home.

Agency Membership in the Foundation

Agency Members of the Foundation have the advantage of placing "permanent endowment funds" with the Foundation under a revocable asset administration agreement. Funds placed with the Foundation under this program are commingled with other endowment funds of the Foundation for investment purposes. Income is allocated quarterly and distributed or reinvested according to the instructions given to the Foundation by the Agency Member.

Agency Membership in the Foundation is open to any of the committees, commissions, councils, local churches, charge conferences, corporations, trusts, or other bodies which are affiliated with or which are agencies of the South Carolina Conference of the United Methodist Church. The Foundation defines endowment funds as permanent long term funds in which the principal is invested and reinvested and only the income or a percentage of the income is used.
