April 12, 2015

Series: Godly Marriage in an Ungodly World

Sermon: God's Design for Marriage

Text: Genesis 2:18-25

Introduction

- I. God made the heaven and the earth, and marriage – 1; 2:15-22
- II. What a perfect marriage looks like – 2:23 -25
- III. The problem that prevents a perfect marriage 3:1-7; 16b

Conclusion

ORNERS ONE Bible Based Gospel Centered Discipleship Focused For the Glory of Goo

April 12, 2015

Series: Godly Marriage in an Ungodly World

Sermon: God's Design for Marriage

Text: Genesis 2:18-25

Introduction

- I. God made the heaven and the earth, and marriage – 1; 2:15-22
- II. What a perfect marriage looks like 2:23
- III. The problem that prevents a perfect marriage 3:1-7; 16b

Conclusion

en
22
22
:23
.25
re-
_
G
D
ALC: UNIVERSITY

Godly Marriage in an Ungodly World Godly Marriage in an Ungodly World Going Deeper -

Going Deeper -

- 1. Think about the last week of your marriage. How did you handle difficulties that life threw at you or that came up in your marriage? What did they reveal about you and the nature of your relationship with God?
- 2. The following are three exercises that need to be done together:
- a. Individually, write out the sinfulness in your heart that you feel negatively impacts your marriage. Then share these things with your spouse and take them to Scripture together. Repent together of that which needs to be repented of and prayerfully determine to work together on the sin that is present in each of your lives. Prayerfully commit to living a married life of open and honest faith and repentance driven by the grace of God.
- b. Individually, write out some of the areas that you would like to see improve in your marriage. Then share them with your spouse and take them to Scripture together adjusting them as the Bible demands. Repent together of that which needs to be repented of, and prayerfully determine to work together on the sin that has cause these weaknesses in your marriage.
- c. Individually, write out some goals that you have for your marriage. Then share them with your spouse and take them to Scripture together adjusting them as the Bible demands. Now work on a set of biblically defined goals together, and prayerfully determine how to work toward them.

- 1. Think about the last week of your marriage. How did you handle difficulties that life threw at you or that came up in your marriage? What did they reveal about you and the nature of your relationship with God?
- 2. The following are three exercises that need to be done together:
- a. Individually, write out the sinfulness in your heart that you feel negatively impacts your marriage. Then share these things with your spouse and take them to Scripture together. Repent together of that which needs to be repented of and prayerfully determine to work together on the sin that is present in each of your lives. Prayerfully commit to living a married life of open and honest faith and repentance driven by the grace of God.
- b. Individually, write out some of the areas that you would like to see improve in your marriage. Then share them with your spouse and take them to Scripture together adjusting them as the Bible demands. Repent together of that which needs to be repented of, and prayerfully determine to work together on the sin that has cause these weaknesses in your marriage.
- c. Individually, write out some goals that you have for your marriage. Then share them with your spouse and take them to Scripture together adjusting them as the Bible demands. Now work on a set of biblically defined goals together, and prayerfully determine how to work toward them.