

The Sprit Tells Us So

Writer's note: Although I like our new Anglican hymn book very much, one disappointment for me was the omission of the hymn "The Day of Resurrection", which I have always sung to the tune of Lancashire. Hence, the tune for which I have written the following:

Tune: Lancashire 164 in The Book of Common Praise. Alternate tune: Morning Light 461 ("Stand up, Stand up for Jesus") in Common Praise

We praise you God our Maker
Where forests thick do grow
Your glory crowns all seasons
With frost and rain and snow
The colours of the land-scape
In earth and sky do sho-w
Your beauty all around us
The Sprit tells us so.

We praise you our Redeemer,
Eternal Word of God
Who brought all life to being
And in our flesh has shown
The Way of love and li-ving
That neither death nor fo-e
Can snatch from a believer
The Sprit tells us so.

We praise you, oh great Teacher
The promised One of Christ
With whom our dear Lord Jesus
Has baptized us with sight
To see into the My-stery
Nor word nor image sho-w
Of the Great Love unending
The Spirit tells us so.

Though many congregations
O'er valleys, rivers, lakes
In worship and in witness
We seek to show your face
That longing souls and bo-dies
Your healing justice kn-ow
Oh Triune God, great Lover
The Spirit tells us so.

Roger Alan Steinke