

Four important messages before you come to the Sorrento Centre:

Feel sick? Don't come! If you feel sick, do not come to our Centre. Anyone not feeling well, including symptoms of illness, should stay home. Symptoms include: fever, chills, cough, shortness of breath, sore throat and painful swallowing, stuffy or runny nose, loss of sense of smell, headache, muscle aches, fatigue, loss of appetite. Call HealthLinkBC at 8-1-1.

Test yourself! Everyone (visitors and staff) who comes to the Sorrento Centre must complete a self-assessment just before you arrive. You can do this in minutes. It is a good habit to take the test regularly. An on-line self-assessment (and downloadable app) here: <https://bc.thrive.health/>

Priority populations? Make an additional assessment: People at greater risk (the elderly, those with immune-compromised conditions, and others) should make an additional assessment of the risks posed by travel and residential stay. More info: <http://www.bccdc.ca/health-info/diseases-conditions/covid-19/priority-populations>

International and Canadian travel restrictions: The Sorrento Centre follows travel restrictions imposed by the national and provincial governments and will not welcome visitors in contravention of travel bans. The restrictions change from time to time and may include bans on international travel, travel between provinces and travel within British Columbia. More info here: <http://www.bccdc.ca/health-info/diseases-conditions/covid-19/prevention-risks/travel>

Questions? Concerns? The Sorrento Centre is committed to the health and well-being of our guests, staff and neighbours. We meet or exceed WorkSafeBC and public health guidelines and requirements. Our detailed plan for all parts of our main campus and natural farm is called 'safe, slow, small'. For more info:
