

In the Creation story God goes out of His way, after each accomplishment to note, that it was good. This is not just God making a comment on His work as it is God taking great delight and pleasure in His creation. To be able to create is amazing! But to appreciate and enjoy it is miraculous.

Possession or Passion

Often juxtaposed is

The unique possession of a gift or talent versus the passionate appreciation of the same Being not a bearer of both I can only surmise

Whether the possession of a blessed gift or the deep appreciation of such is of greater value
But this I know

They are seldom coupled

As the possessor of great beauty rarely gives notice to that which rivets another's attention

Whether musician or artist

They are much robbed if Deliberate brush strokes or orchestral notes

Be considered as only filler for canvas or notes for symphony

Rather than to be awe-filled

By the gift

And the One who gives them
