50-01
■"Every Thing is Sacred" is a companion piece to Richard Rohr's book "The Universal Christ."

■Rohr and Boland offer 40 Reflections and practices exploring what it means to live in "Christ."

■This book can serve as a reminder of key insights from "The Universal Christ" which we studied three years ago as a way to become acquainted with Rohr's work for the first time.

Question Two: What benefit do you think there is in having a person like Patrick Boland complement and contribute to Rohr's work? - discuss

"A Guide to Christian freedom and fun!" Intro

Why ACTS decided to choose this book for class session #50.
- discuss

"There is a deep relationship between the inner revolution of prayer and the transformation of social structures and social consciousness. Our hope lies in the fact that meditation is going to change the society that we live in, just as it has changed us."

– FATHER RICHARD ROHR

■A way to use this book: A personal experience
■ Focusing on our individual and particular situation can open doors to a much broader, universal, set of spiritual discoveries.
■What do you think?
