

The Great Commission Before the Great Commission

Hear, O Israel: The Lord our God, the Lord is one.

You shall love the Lord your God with all your heart and with all your soul and with all your might.

And these words that I command you today shall be on your heart. You shall teach them diligently to your children, and shall talk of them when you sit in your house, and when you walk by the way, and when you lie down, and when you rise.

You shall bind them as a sign on your hand, and they shall be as frontlets between your eyes. You shall write them on the doorposts of your house and on your gates.

Deuteronomy 6:4-9, ESV

Why Family Discipleship Matters

God does not simply give children to families; instead, He provides families with eternal souls to guide and care for. Parents, grandparents, and caregivers are stewards of a gift from God.

Parents are called to disciple children at home until they are launched from their homes like arrows into the world for God's glory. In addition, grandparents have the joy, honor, and obligation to assist in passing on the Christian faith to the next generation!

Families come in all shapes and sizes: single-parent, blended, large, and small. How family discipleship is accomplished varies from family to family and is as unique as the DNA of each home. Family discipleship isn't one-size-fits-all, and it isn't easy. Even the most intentional of Gospel-centered parents may be at a loss regarding how to begin. The church is responsible for coming alongside families to help them craft their approach to discipling their home.

Child discipleship has to happen as early as possible. According to the Barna Group, kids' moral standards are in place by age 9, their beliefs about Christ by age 12, and they will have established what they believe spiritually for the rest of their lives by age 13.

This one-day intensive is designed to equip parents, grandparents, and other caregivers with the necessary tools to bring the gospel's transforming power into their homes and families.

Develop habits of home discipleship, enjoy informative seminars, awesome activities, books, and resources, and worship with other families seeking to bring the Word of God into their homes.

Coming alongside parents, grandparents and caregivers as they disciple their children in being passionate Jesus followers!
