- How does understanding that righteousness comes from God (Jehovah Tsidkenu) change your perspective on personal failures?
- In what ways can you practically demonstrate being 'right with God' in your daily life?
- Reflect on a time when you tried to achieve righteousness on your own. What did you learn from that experience?
- How can understanding the historical context of Jeremiah's time help you relate to the current moral issues in society?
- How are you tempted to "get ahead" of God in His plans and will?
