"I must work the work of him that sent me, while it is day, the night cometh when no man can work." John 9:4

July, 2025 Update

Romans 8:21 (KJV) "Because the creature itself also shall be delivered from the bondage of corruption into the glorious liberty of the children of God."

Dear Friends and Fellow Laborers,

Having served in the Marine Corps., it makes the 4th of July one of my favorite holidays but having been set free from sin, definitely puts it at the top of the list. I had heard about eternal life but since I got it, it has been the song of my heart. That may not be good English, but it is good to my heart.

Jailyn got saved back in May and I talked to him about getting baptized. He was wanting to, but he wanted his family to be here, they were finally able to make it, and with about 10 members of his family here to witness it, he finally was baptized. He has continued to attend faithfully and is growing in his newfound faith.

Abrahan, yes with an "n," was invited to church by Alesis, and stayed to eat lunch with us at the Serviceman Center after church. He was one of the 10 Marines that needed a haircut and I talked to him during his haircut he realized his need of salvation, so after he was finished getting his haircut he sat at the table with a Bible, and I explained salvation while I was giving the next haircut. He turned and read, and I explained and answered questions that he asked. Then when he said he understood he bowed his head and asked the Lord to forgive his sins and to save him. He has been attending church and Bible study ever since.

We went by to check on one of the Marines that had not been to church in over a month and found out he had moved units. We asked the Marine in the room if he attended church and about his salvation and while talking with Clayton, his friend Victor came to pick him up, so I asked if he wanted to get ready while I explained the salvation message to Victor, but he said he wanted to pray and ask the Lord to save him first, so he did, and then proceeded to get ready. I was able to give the gospel message to his friend Victor as well. He had some questions, but the answers were all in the Bible. I was able to share scriptures to answer the questions and he also trusted the Lord to save him!

Carlos was on duty at the barracks one night and after finishing a couple of visits I returned to the duty to sign out and leave. It was after 2200 but the Holy Spirit told me that this man needed to hear the Gospel. I was able to share the plan of salvation to him as he listened intently, and he bowed his head and asked the Lord to come into his heart and save him!

Thank you to those who have donated towards the kitchen remodel. The beginning stages are in the works. To God be the glory,

Salvation and Service

We are so blessed to serve our King! July was a month of activities, and we saw fruit from our efforts. We completed the English Classes, and although no one has yet been saved, the Gospel was presented clearly multiple times. We know God is not bound by time, and He will continue to work in the hearts of those who heard His Word. We had our Friend Day service, which was also in-line with the English Class graduation service. Missionary Robbie Prater preached a very clear presentation of the Gospel, we had a number of visitors that morning and I believe many heard the Gospel presented clearly for the first time. We also had a young lady named Juana, who has attended the services for over a year, she put her faith in Jesus for salvation! She has been faithfully taught by the ladies in Bible Classes and in other settings as well as in the services of the church. We sat down with her last month and shared the Gospel in great detail, but she did not want to believe, we have been praying and God answered our prayers, she came to me and asked if we could speak, we took her aside, after hearing the Gospel again, she believed on Jesus with tears in her eyes!! What a loving God we have!

We will have a Kid's Festival this month and a special kids service on "Kid's Day". Please be praying for all the things going on in the ministry that God has given us!

Serving Together,

Patrick, Leslie, Lily, Piper, Ivy, and Isla Henry

From the Heart of a Pastor –

“It is not “when;” it is “why” and for “Whom?”

When I attended college (Appalachian State University), I was privileged to take several classes that I did not enjoy very much. Such is the case with all of us. But the ones out of which I received the most fulfillment were those that not only were in my chosen field of study, but were those rare electives that allowed me to study something in which I was interested. One of those was a creative writing class that also touched on areas of journalism. There, we were told that the best articles, and stories for that matter, always answer the questions – “Who? When? Where? How? And why?”

Many of us have known this to be the case, in regards to newspapers and research projects. But it also applies to ministry. In recent years I have found myself very disappointed with the attitudes and agendas of many of us in the areas of worship. Please note that I said “us.” For we are all susceptible to this trap, if we are not careful. It manifests itself in such a selfish and self-serving way. It says, “My ministry of preaching, singing, instrumental performance, etc., is of such quality and ability that it is not only important that I am featured, but I must also be given those prime, spotlight opportunities to showcase my talent.” In other words, it would appear that the “when” has become more important than the “why” or the “for Whom.” Sadly, I have watched this take place, and take root, in the hearts of far too many.

I am convinced today more than ever that if the “why” and the “for Whom” are not right then the “when” does not matter. Preaching, singing, ministering in any capacity is as important on Wednesday night, as it is on Sunday morning. It is as vital and as essential at the nursing home to the ten or twelve residents that look forward to it every week, as it is to the hundreds that may sit on a pew on Sundays. When we allow ourselves to be caught up in a numbers game or be so enamored by our position on the stage, then we have lost sight of what matters most in eternity. And while someone reading this may be quick to point out that Jesus ministered to hundreds and thousands, let us not forget that He “must needs go through Samaria” so that He could share the Gospel with one outcast woman, at a well.

Always remember that the “why” and the “for Whom” must be driven by a desire to serve the Lord with what He has given to us. Why do we preach or teach or sing? Is it to receive the approval or applause of men? Or is it to please God? My friends, we serve the One that has called us out of darkness into His marvelous light. We minister in the name of the One that rescued us from the mire and put us in the choir. We labor on behalf of the One that loved us and gave Himself for us. Therefore, the “why” must come from a heart filled with thanksgiving for Him saving and using someone like us.

Lest anyone think that I have forgotten the other questions that need to be answered, let me explain that the how and the where are also important. Remembering that God gave His best for us, we should always strive to give our best to Him. We should serve with the thought in mind of having excellence in our ministry; of doing whatever it is that we are privileged to do with a high degree of quality. Therefore, practice and study, prepare and pray, and then let the service in public pour forth from the overflow of what God has done in us in private. And yes, the where is also significant.

So, preacher and teacher, missionary and evangelist, singer and servant, accept those invitations to be with a large gathering of believers or in a place where you can share the Gospel with a multitude of people that have never heard. But don't overlook those small, seemingly insignificant fields; those times where only a handful of faithful, hungry, hurting souls need to hear a word from Heaven and be reminded of all that God has done for us. Take advantage of every God-given opportunity whether on a Sunday morning or a Thursday afternoon, to thousands or to two, and serve Him with gladness knowing that He knows the reasons behind all of our service to Him and before others.
