Still the Lord of All (Larson/Martin)

Though the season yields no harvest, and the olive trees are bare, 'though the earth is dry and thirsty, and the future holds despair, 'though the fig tree fails to blossom, and the rains refuse to fall, I rejoice Lord of the Harvest; You are still the Lord of All. Lord of All in times of plenty, Lord of all in times of need. Living water, you sustain me; Bread of life, my soul you feed. When the greatness of my trials leaves me weak and feeling small, I rejoice, Lord of the Harvest; You are still the Lord of All.
"Though a killing frost comes early and the grapes die on the vine, 'though the barns contain no barley, and cellar holds no wine, And although the fields are empty, and so too the cattle stall, I rejoice Lord of the Harvest; You are still the Lord of All. You are Lord in times of comfort, and you are Lord in when comforts cease. You are Lord in times of struggle, and Lord in times of ease. Lord in every time and season, Lord of everything
