

The Book of Concord: What is it? Part 6

The Treatise on the Power and Primacy of the Pope

Perhaps you've heard this document referenced when attending the ordination or installation of a Lutheran pastor. It is mentioned (along with the Augsburg Confession, its Apology, and all other documents of the Confessions of the Evangelical Lutheran Church) as the pastor is asked if he claims for himself the confession of faith contained in the Book of Concord. The "power and primacy of the pope?" Perhaps you've always wondered what that could possibly mean. Wonder no more!

As you may recall from the two previous newsletter articles which examined The Smalcald Articles, the Smalcaldic League had met and struggle through no small disagreement concerning the contents of that document. Everyone present at the meeting signed it, but it was not formally adopted at that time (it would be formally adopted later, in 1577). However, another document, The Treatise on the Power and Primacy of the Pope, authored primarily by Philip Melanchthon, was both signed and adopted by members of the league during their meeting, and subsequently published in 1540.

This document addressed one of the major issues, at the heart of the Reformation, which had not been covered in The Augsburg Confession or The Apology. In those days, the prevailing belief (and possibly the largest impediment to reformation of the Church and restoration of the Gospel) was that the Pope was the central and supreme authority over the entire Church of Christ. Claiming the title, "Vicar of Christ," the Pope was said to be the immediate successor to St. Peter. Perhaps worse, it was also believed that it was necessary for salvation to believe these things about papal authority.

The belief that Peter held a special authority over the Apostles had developed from other mis understanding of Christ's proclamation to Peter in Matthew 16:18; a verse upon which rests the majority of the argument concerning papal authority. The papists would argue that when Christ says "On this rock I will build My church," He is speaking of Peter as the rock, thus making him chief over The Apostles and head of the entire Church of Christ in His stead. However, a careful study of the actual words of Matthew 16:18 reveals that Christ is playing off Peter's name, "Petros," to speak about the "Petra," the rock-solid truth that Peter is expressing, namely, the truth about Christ. Thus, Christ is building His Church not on Peter himself. but on the rock that is Peter's confession (and likewise on the confession of all who confess Christ as the Son of God).

The other primary text used to defend the Pope as supreme authority comes from John 21where Christ admonishes Peter ("Peter, do you love me?... Feed my sheep.") However, this is less about Christ giving Peter special supreme authority over the other Apostles (and by extension over the entire Church) and more about restoring Peter to his position as Apostle after his very poignant fall in his denial of Christ.

The truths concerning these texts had been lost to the Church; and thus, in crept the errant belief that Christ's authority flowed through the Pope to the Church on earth

The Treatise on the Power and Primacy of the Pope provides the Reformers' scriptural view of authority in the Church, the basis on which the Church was founded, and the foundation upon which it subsists. The Treatise has two basic parts. The first examines the claims made about papal authority and dismantles them using Scripture as well as historical evidence. The second part explains the power and jurisdiction of bishops.

In addition to dealing with the Scripture texts listed above (Matthew 16 & Donn 21), the first part of The Treatise also uses Scripture verses such as Luke 22 and Matthew 18 to show that Christ admonished the apostles to guard against lording their authority over anyone. It points out how in John 20, Christ sends out The Apostles in equality with no specific privilege given to any of them as individuals, and from Galatians 2 it shows Paul as having apostolic authority without having been ordained or in any way authorized by Peter.

From here it is conceded that The Council of Nicaea did establish the Bishop of Rome as administrator for the churches in the West and the Bishop of Alexandria as the same for the churches in the Eastern part of the empire, but the point is emphasized that this was a human decision and thus the authority granted to these two bishoprics was by human rite only, for the sake of good order. It also points out that Nicaea further established that all bishops should be elected by their respective churches, not appointed by another bishop who claims central authority for himself.

The document then provides a thorough refutation of the papist arguments for papal authority, addressing the first two Scripture texts mentioned near the beginning of this article, in a very detailed and expansive way. It then goes on to provide a detailed contrast between the Pope and Christ in an effort to show that the Pope in no way properly represents Christ. Following this comes what is probably the most famous and controversial portion of this document; the assertion that the pope is the antichrist. This seems, for many, to be too far reaching, or maybe even offensive. But, as the document itself shows, the "marks of Antichrist plainly agree with the kingdom of the pope and his followers" and the claim is defended in great detail. Promoting godless teachings and setting himself up as speaking for Christ in matters not expressed in Scriptures are the two main points made in connecting the papacy to antichrist.

The remainder of the document, the second part, The Power and Jurisdiction of Bishops, is a helpful commentary on the vocation and duties of pastors. It points out that the Office of the Ministry is about preaching the Gospel, forgiving sins, administrating the Sacraments, and "excommunicating persons guilty of public sins" (basically binding sins to those who do not repent). This is the only authority held by those in the Office of the Ministry. In other words, they cannot claim any political or worldly authority for themselves. It also asserts and defends that the right to call pastors and bishops resides with the congregations of the Church, and not with any bishop(s).

The Treatise is an immensely helpful document in understanding what is the Office of the Ministry and why it was instituted. While it allows for the creation of a hierarchy within the clergy by human rite for the sake of good order, it also emphasizes that all clergy are equal when it comes to the essence of The Office of the Ministry: proclaiming the Gospel, administering the Sacraments, and other duties related to these. As the Gospel is one, so the ministry of the Gospel is one.

In Christ,

FALL DINNER KICKOFF

It is time once again to save the date for the Fall Dinner. The event will take place on November 23, 2025, from 11:00am to 6:00pm.

After a subcommittee met and reviewed historical records, it was unanimously decided to move the date back to November, avoiding conflict with other October church dinners. Additionally, the committee decided it was necessary to serve dinner guests for longer hours to meet their needs.

The Church Quilt Group is quilting a quilt for the auction at 1:00. There will also be fabulously decorated cakes and pies from our talented kids & adults and other auction items donated by gifted parishioners.

NEW CHURCH DIRECTORY UNDER DEVELOPMENT

Volunteers of Trinity Church and School are hard at work developing a new church membership directory. This directory will include new updated individual and family pictures with general contact information that will be used to create a new directory. Pictures for this directory will be completed in-house which will greatly reduce the overall cost of this project and eliminate the high-pressure sales of a photo package. If you have a current photo of yourself or your family readily available, please consider forwarding this to the church to be included in the church directory. Church committee pictures are also being sought for this document. A time and place will be announced soon when your photograph can be taken by a volunteer. A finished directory will be completed and ready by the end of this calendar year. Questions? Contact Janell Bernskoetter or Jared Kesel.

LIGHTS-CAMERA-SMILE

The Board of Elders has initiated the need for a new and updated church directory of all current members of Trinity Lutheran Church.

This new directory will include a photograph of all members and their families, church boards and committees. This project will be completed – internally-by a handful of faithful volunteers from Trinity Church for the purpose of saving the church thousands of dollars and eliminating the high-pressure salesperson trying to convince you to purchase a package of family portraits.

It's as easy as:

- 1. Schedule a date for your photograph.
- 2. Complete a questionnaire for each photo to be included in the directory.
- 3. Attend a 10-minute photo shoot at church.
- 4. Smile for your picture.
- 5. Select one photo you would like to include in the new church directory.

It's that simple – After every member of Trinity Church has had an opportunity to participate in this photo shoot, a hardcopy directory will be offered to Trinity members at a nominal cost. Otherwise, electronic photographs will be offered through Trinity's BREEZE program, which is currently offered to all members Pictures will be taken before and after church services, and selected Wednesday mornings after chapel and selected Wednesday evenings, from September 21 to October 29 in the church boardroom. There is a 10-minute interval between each setting.

Here's how it works:

Visit form.jotform.com/251634457626058 to update your family's information. This step is required before your picture can be taken. If you would like to take your own photo, or have a recent photo you prefer to use, just fill out the questionnaire listed above and there will be an option to upload your picture (JPG format is preferred).

To schedule your directory photo appointment, go to:

https://signup.com/go/TLCDirectory

Everyone is encouraged to participate. Questions? Contact Janell Bernskoetter at (573)690-6375 or Jared Kesel through the church office at (573)635-6750.
