Sunday in Lent

Jesus Washes Feet

Jesus knew he was going to die soon, and before he left his friends, he wanted to show them how they were to care for each other. That evening, he wrapped a towel around his waist and filled a big bowl with water. "I am going to wash your feet," he told his friends.

"No way!" they said. "That's a job for servants to do!"

Jesus smiled. "Exactly. I did not come to earth to be a tyrant king and order everyone around. I came here to serve."

Peter frowned. "But you're our teacher and our master!"

"Yes, Peter," Jesus answered. "So if your teacher and master can serve you, then you can serve others, no matter who they are."

Jesus friends nodded. They would remember what Jesus showed them.

REMEMBER THIS

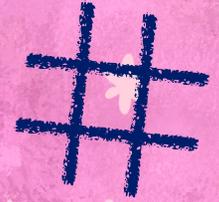

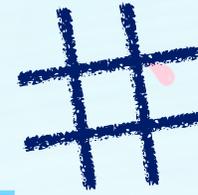

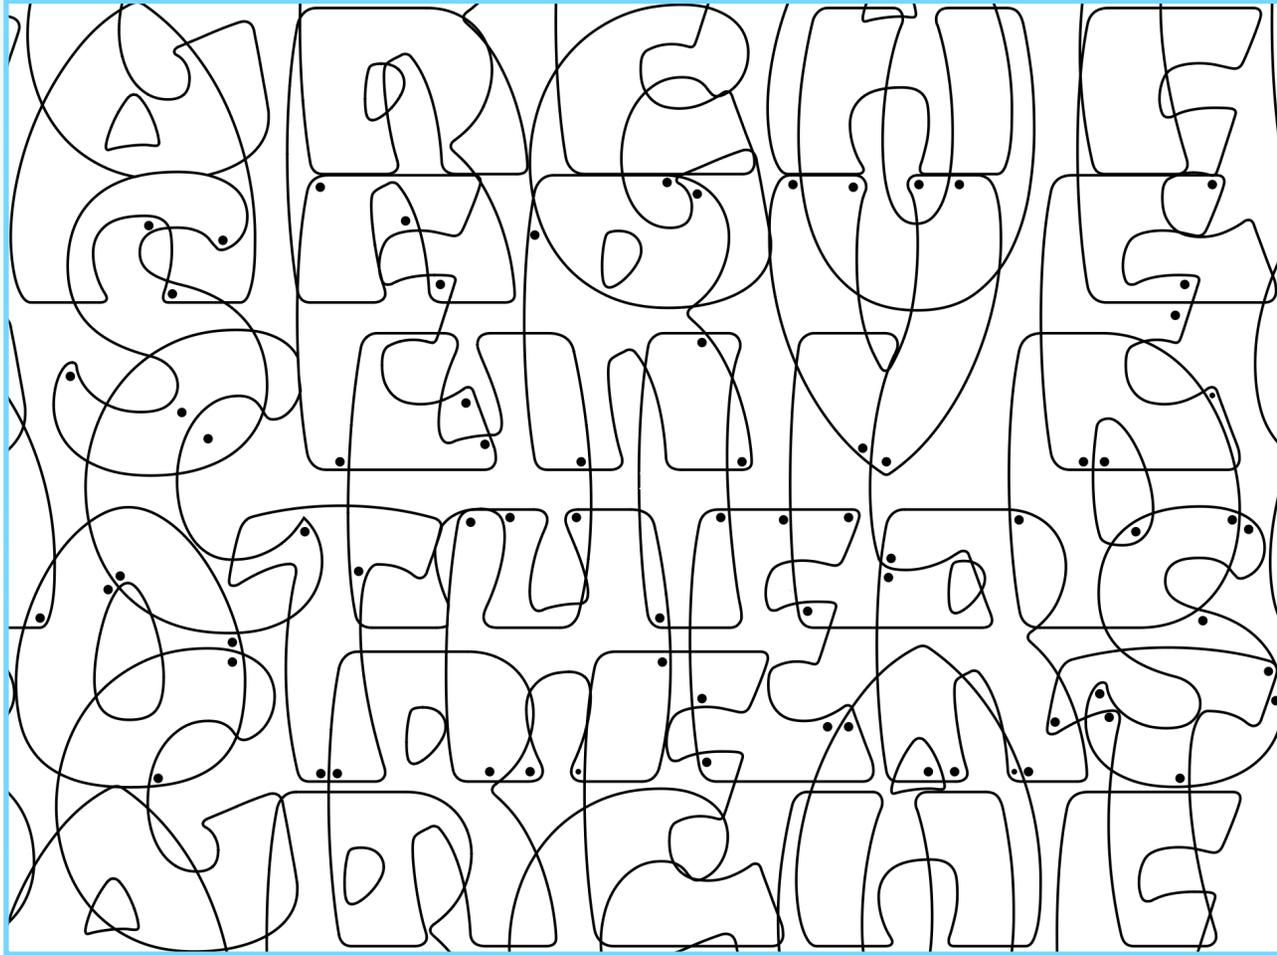

WASHING FEET

In Jesus' time, people wore sandals, so their feet got dirty. They washed their feet when they came inside.

A HIDDEN TEACHING

Color the shapes with dots to see what Jesus showed his disciples to do.

Note: Some spaces (and dots) are teeny tiny!

Did You Know?

In Jesus' time, washing hands and feet wasn't really about getting clean. It was about being "ritually pure"—prepared to spend time with God.

TRY IT AT HOME!

With a grown-up's permission and help, soak your feet in some warm water. Maybe add some scented soap or essential oil. How does it feel to just relax like that?
