Communication Column

Holy moments happen in our lives on occasion but most of those holy moments don't typically happen with cell phones in our hands. Usually they distract us from things that are important, the other evening at home however a holy moment happened because of a cell phone. Lane was scrolling through pictures when he accidentally deleted a comical one of my dad. I told him not to worry about it because I had that same picture on my phone. He wanted me to double check so as I was checking I came across a video from 2018. The video was of my dad speaking at Railroad Days in Appalachia, Virginia. They honored him that day for his coaching career with the Appalachia Bulldogs. I hadn't heard his voice in over 2 years so just to hear it again made me thankful.

I began to reflect back on that day, our whole family went together because they were honoring dad. Another friend and his family were there because he was in a band that was supplying music for Railroad days. Another set of friends were there because they lived in Appalachia. We were blessed that day to spend time with family and friends, and even to make some new friends and to celebrate a few other relationships that were made over 30 years ago. As I thought about that day I was just simply thankful for the people that God has blessed my life with. Paul was certainly thankful for the people that God had put in his life because many times when he writes to the church he says something like, "I thank my God every time I think about you." We should be thankful to God for people, after all He is the giver of every good gift.

That thankfulness should overflow into our lives. Our thankfulness should lead us to live differently. How should our thanksgiving affect our lives?

- It should lead us to pray for people
- It should lead us to pray with people
- It should lead us to encourage people
- It should lead us to listen to people
- It should lead us to let people know that they are loved
- It should lead us to spend time with people
- If someone is lost it should inspire us to point them to Jesus
- To invite them to church
- Maybe to send a text or make a call

These are just a few suggestions, but if we are truly thankful for people it should affect how we act. We should treat people with love, concern and kindness. We should forgive, we should encourage, we should simply love people for the glory of God!
