The Holy Spirit Leads Me

April Series: Living The Resurrection Life

Week Focus: Walking By The Spirit

Scripture – Romans 8:14

“For those who are led by the Spirit of God are the children of God.”

Devotional Reflection

Being led by the Holy Spirit is not reserved for a few—it is the normal life of every believer. Romans reminds us that those who are God’s children are led by His Spirit, which means guidance is not something you have to chase—it is something already available to you. God is not distant or silent; He is actively involved in leading your life. The question is not whether He is speaking, but whether you are aware of His leading.

Many times, we move through life making decisions based on what we feel, what we see, or what we have experienced before. But being led by the Holy Spirit requires a different approach. It invites you to pause, to listen, and to become aware of what God is doing in the moment. This kind of living shifts you from reacting to responding.

The Holy Spirit often leads in ways that are subtle but clear. It may come as a check in your spirit, a sense to pause, or a prompting to move in a certain direction. These moments may seem small, but they are significant. The more you recognize them, the more you begin to trust them.

As you begin to follow the Holy Spirit’s leading, your life starts to take a different shape. Your decisions become more aligned, your responses more intentional, and your direction more steady. What once felt uncertain begins to feel guided. This is the beginning of living led instead of driven.

Today, take time to slow down and become aware. You don’t have to figure everything out on your own. God is leading you, and His guidance is available in every moment. The more you recognize His leading, the more confident you become in following it.
