

"You must follow me."

We are called to a _____ journey of obedience.

- Matthew 4:19-20, 16:24-26

Questions for Further Discussion:

(Great for Life Groups, family devotionals, or with a friend)

1. Do you have past sins that you struggle to believe Jesus will truly forgive? Or sins that you believe make you unlovable or unworthy? How could this be a sign that you are less forgiving of yourself than Jesus?
2. What is the evidence in someone's life that they truly love Jesus? Why is the question of loving Jesus the most important part of following Him?
3. Is the command "feed my sheep" only to Peter (or church leaders/pastors)? How could it apply to all believers?
4. What is dangerous about comparing our own discipleship journey to others? How is following Jesus both an individual and shared mission?
