

Jayden Parsons:

What skills and passion would you bring to the Board?

I will bring what I've learned with the teen group and PDXGen to the Board. My passion is intergenerational connection. I have a fresh perspective and energy to get things organized. I'm also really looking for that personal connection. I want to grow with this community and help build a space where everyone feels like they belong.

What is your highest and best vision for PCSL?

A center that thinks outside the box to connect our community through love, support and social justice. I see a center that is open to authenticity, so that we see more family and friends and they know they are welcome, wanted, and safe in the space. I see a thriving teen group along with a thriving young adult group. Also, that each volunteer feels supported in their role.

Sean AB Larkin:

What skills and passion would you bring to the Board?

I have served on a board of directors previously: Member at Large for OSPIRG. I have experience with creating/editing bylaws. I worked on the previous strategic plan for PCSL and the co-creation covenant process for our minister so I have extensive experience with long term planning and visioning for PCSL. I have experience in grant writing and supported two grants totaling several thousand dollars and wrote a grant for 58k for a local non-profit. I have done numerous volunteer roles at PCSL and run programs, taken classes, organized volunteers and created programming. I have been to PCSL community retreats, CSL Teen summer/winter camps, NextGEN retreat. I am passionate about organization structure, fiscal integrity, clear communication, workflow/process improvement. I am a gifted communicator and talented organizer.

What is your highest and best vision for PCSL?

A center with hundreds of weekly attendees (and tithers), dozens of teen's and youth and young adults in thriving programs with an abundance of volunteers. Workshops, classes and seminars held regularly. A plethora of Practitioner sessions held each week. Regular community engagement and social activism. A community of volunteers that share the co-creation of the community where there is no burn out but rather a radiant upliftment from communal effort.

Rev. Cathi Condon:

What skills and passion would you bring to the Board?

I have been a Board Member on Newport Mesa Center in the early 90's, Westside church of Religious Science, Open Spirit Center for Spiritual Living, and Unity Church of Beaverton. From 2000 to 2024 I have served as a Board Member and Spiritual Leader for the those three centers.

What is your highest and best vision for PCSL?

My vision for PCSL is an expanding center that is based in Spiritual Principles as taught by Ernest Holmes. A place where all people are welcome and provided the tools necessary for Spiritual growth and a deepened level of consciousness to support a life well lived.

LaRhonda Steele:

What skills and passion would you bring to the Board?

The skills I bring are many; I am familiar with the music and musical team and equipment. I am familiar with the rental of the facility. I have served on the hospitality team.

What is your highest and best vision for PCSL?

To continue and expand as haven for higher consciousness centered around "The Good".
A variety of services that demonstrate connecting to Source.
Continued education in Science of mind.

Doc Wilson:

What skills and passion would you bring to the Board?

Having been on the Board at CSL East Hawaii, I am familiar with many of the customary rules and routines of each Board member. I am semi-retired and now have more time to dedicate to CSL, especially at PCSL.

What is your highest and best vision for PCSL?

Ooh! I envision a crowd of families buzzing with excitement at the opportunity to be together learning more about the thoughts of Ernest Holmes.

Nancy Ashley:

What skills and passion would you bring to the Board?

Passion for the Highest and Best for our Center; willingness to serve as a member at large; history with PCSL.

What is your highest and best vision for PCSL?

That we are a Beloved Community with all the qualities of Love, Non-Violence, Integrity, Equality, Non-Discrimination, and Forgiveness for all.

Erin Hurt:

What skills and passion would you bring to the Board?

I'm an excellent listener, and have been working very hard on discernment and finding the best way to respond before I speak. Once spoken a word cannot be taken back. I do not have technology skills, but I love to listen to people and their stories. I also enjoy connecting people to each other. I can be a Chief Encourager.

What is your highest and best vision for PCSL?

A safe place for all to feel a sense of belonging so much so that they want to participate to support the community any way they can. A place where everyone is supported and encouraged to be the best example of who they are as a Spiritual being having a Human experience!
