Newly-released book!

Last week I was excited to release my first book, May I Ask a Question? This devotional is designed for teens and young adults and explores the questions people asked Jesus throughout the Gospel of Matthew. Through Scripture, practical application, and personal reflection, it encourages readers to think deeply about their faith and discover how Christ's answers still impact our lives today. The response during the first week of release has been very encouraging, and it is my prayer that this devotional will be a blessing and a useful tool for youth ministries, discipleship efforts, and young adults seeking to grow in their walk with the Lord.

I have also enjoyed helping prepare for the upcoming summer Amazon Medical Missions trips. I have been helping with social media outreach and the development of a new informational app that will be used to support the ministry. It has been exciting to see the many details coming together as these trips approach.

Please be in prayer for these upcoming Amazon medical outreaches, particularly for wisdom and guidance for the leadership team as they finalize preparations. Also, please pray for the many individuals who have signed up to participate, including several people from some of my supporting churches. Most importantly, please pray for the countries and communities that will be impacted by these outreaches. With the political uncertainty and travel-related challenges that continue to affect parts of South America, we are trusting the Lord to open doors and provide safety for all involved.

I would also like to thank everyone who has been praying regarding my nurse practitioner clinical hours. After my previous clinical site unexpectedly became unavailable, the Lord graciously provided another opportunity. I was able to secure a new clinical placement and am now almost halfway through my first rotation. The experience has gone very well so far, and I am grateful for what I am learning and how it can be used as a future ministry tool.

Best,

Sarah Goodman
