THE COLLECT FOR TODAY IS:

ALMIGHTY and merciful God, of whose only gift it cometh that thy faithful people do unto thee true and laudable service: Grant, we beseech thee, that we may so faithfully serve thee in this life, that we fail not finally to attain thy heavenly promises; through the merits of Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen. BCP P 237

THE INTROIT PSALM

Look, O Lord, graciously upon thy covenant, and forsake not the congregation of the poor forever: arise, O lord, maintain thine own cause; and be not unmindful of the voices of them that seek thee. O God, wherefore art thou absent from us so long: why is thy wrath so hot against the sheep of thy pasture? Glory be... and to the Holy Ghost. As it was... and ever shall be: world without end. Amen

Fellowship- Lost in Translation?

What do you think about when you hear the word- "fellowship?" Do you envision an after-church coffee hour? Does the "fellowship" only happen on Sunday? So, what does fellowship really mean?

In the New Testament, Jesus prayed that His disciples would be one – unified! The book of Acts reveals the fruit of the relationship between the disciples and Christ. His disciples (now apostles) carried on His work in His Name, and in His power. The disciples did become unified. The believers did not simply gather for social time. They met to support one another – to pray, study, and to share the Eucharist. In so doing, they remembered what Jesus had done for them. Acts 2:42 says: "They devoted themselves to the apostles' teaching and to the fellowship in the breaking of the bread and to prayer."

Taking a closer look at the original Greek text, the word "koinonia" captures the relationship between the believers. Many English bibles translate this word simply as: "fellowship." So much meaning is lost in translation. "Koinonia" means: "interactive relationship between God and believers," "active participation in Christian community." Common in these definitions is "action." A new relationship with God begins as Jesus moves towards us in love. He loves us so much and declared it by going to the Cross. This is sacrificial action. Our relationships with each other mirror our relationship with Jesus. They begin with and are fostered by action -we move towards one another sharing our common faith in Jesus.

Have you experienced true fellowship with Jesus? Are the communities in our Parish living out true fellowship? What action could you take to help foster true fellowship in each part of our Parish?

In the Love of Jesus, Rob+

The Good Samaritan – Luke 10:25–37

"Teacher," he said, "what must I do to inherit eternal life?"
— Luke 10:25

The story of the Good Samaritan is very familiar to us. We often understand it as a simple lesson: love your neighbour, whoever they may be, especially those who are different from us or in need. And that is certainly part of Jesus' message. But this parable has a deeper meaning.

A lawyer asks Jesus, "What must I do to inherit eternal life?" He is thinking about what he must do. Then he asks, "Who is my neighbour?" In other words, Who do I have to love?

Jesus responds with the story of a man who is robbed, beaten, and left half-dead on the road. A priest and a Levite pass by without helping him. Then a Samaritan comes along. Jews and Samaritans were enemies, yet the Samaritan stops, cares for the wounded man, and goes out of his way to help him.

Jesus teaches us that our neighbour is anyone who is in need, regardless of who they are. We are called to show compassion, even when it is difficult or uncomfortable. But there is an even deeper question: Who are we in this story?

Sometimes we are the person helping others. But sometimes, we are the person lying helpless in the ditch. We cannot save ourselves. We need someone to come alongside us and show us mercy.

And perhaps this is where Jesus is found in the story.

Jesus is like the Good Samaritan. He comes to us when we are helpless. He sees our wounds, has compassion on us, and saves us when we cannot save ourselves. The lawyer asked, "What must I do to inherit eternal life?" Jesus reminds us that eternal life is not something we can earn by our own efforts. We depend upon God's grace and mercy.

So this parable calls us to do two things: receive God's mercy and extend that mercy to others. We are sometimes the wounded person in the ditch, and sometimes we are called to be the neighbour who stops to help.

Thanks be to God that when we are helpless, Jesus is our Good Samaritan. He comes to us with love, mercy, and grace. Amen.
