I Found My Way To Jesus

In honor of Max Mayes

By Michael Orr

Alas, my time has ended,
Where mortals carry weight,
My soul has now ascended,
Beyond the narrow gate.

But I found my way to Jesus,
In a room designed for me,
With my pilgrimage completed,
I am where I ought to be.

Every step that led to glory,
Held a tremble or a sigh,
In an oft-repeating story,
And another long goodbye.

Yet I found my way to Jesus,
Where reunions fill the room,
And the bride is dressed and waiting,
For the entrance of the groom.

Though weary, worked, and weighted,
By the ache of unresolved,
Every pain has been deflated,
Every problem has been solved.

As I found my way to Jesus,
When redemption found its day,
For this servant reached eternal,
By a new and living way.

Dear friends on river's border,
I must leave you on the banks,
Though you grieve, let hope preserve you,
In the giving of this thanks,

That I found my way to Jesus,
Far beyond the cares of men,
