Afrocentric Sunday

Sept, 15, 1830: The First National Negro Convention held in Philadelphia to discuss leaving U.S. The convention was initiated by Hezekiel Grice, a free brother from Baltimore, who was sick and tired of being sick and tired of the oppression in the U.S. Grice wrote to several big-time Black leaders asking if free Blacks should consider getting the hell outta Dodge and head to Canada. Roughly 40 showed up, including the founder of the AME Church, Bishop Richard Allen. This 1830 conversation offers historical context to an under-appreciated advocate for Black self-determination, the late Randall Robinson, founder of Trans-Africa, who wrote several must-read books including "Quitting America: The Departure of a Black Man From his Native Land;" and the current move of many Blackfolk choosing to relocate outside the U.S. The 1830 convention was the first of many. The phenomenon in total was known as the Negro Convention Movement.

SCRIPTURE READING

 SCRIPTURE LUKE 9:12-17

- ¹² And when the day began to wear away, then came the twelve, and said unto him, Send the multitude away, that they may go into the towns and country round about, and lodge, and get victuals: for we are here in a desert place.
- ¹³ But he said unto them, Give ye them to eat. And they said, We have no more but five loaves and two fishes; except we should go and buy meat for all this people.
- ¹⁴ For they were about five thousand men. And he said to his disciples, Make them sit down by fifties in a company.
- ¹⁵ And they did so, and made them all sit down.
- ¹⁶ Then he took the five loaves and the two fishes, and looking up to heaven, he blessed them, and brake, and gave to the disciples to set before the multitude.
- ¹⁷ And they did eat, and were all filled: and there was taken up of fragments that remained to them twelve baskets.
