Isaiah 55:1-13

Good Food and Drink...And It's Free! – Discussion Questions

- What makes it hard (or easy) to receive a gift without feeling that you need to earn or repay it?
- In Isaiah 55:1-3, God invites the thirsty to come and receive. What do you think “thirst” might represent in a person’s life?
- What are some things that people turn to for satisfaction that doesn’t ultimately satisfy? What does Isaiah 55 suggest that God offers instead?
- Isaiah 55:8-9 describes God’s thoughts and ways as higher than our own. How can we trust God when we don’t understand what God is doing?
- What might seeking the Lord or calling on the Lord look like in your life?
- When it comes to calling on God in prayer, what tends to be a part of your prayers – adoration, questions, joys, struggles, thank you’s, something else all together?
- Isaiah compares God’s word to rain that brings growth? How has scripture shaped you over time?
- Isaiah pictures joy and peace alongside a world that is filled with brokenness. Where have you experienced joy and peace in the midst of brokenness and uncertainty?
- What might renewal look like in your life, city, or world, as reflected in the cypress trees growing where thorns once grew (Isaiah 55:13)?
