

Emergency Food Distributions Begin in Cuba

Food insecurity is rising sharply in Cuba. A prolonged recession, the US embargo, and restrictions on fuel and essential imports make it increasingly difficult to access enough nutritious food. In response, PWS&D is supporting a project that is providing rations to 750 households (about 3,000 people) over three months. The project is targeting the most marginalized populations, including elderly people, people with disabilities, pregnant and breastfeeding women, and vulnerable children. This collaborative project is being undertaken with the Anglican and United Church, and is possible with matching funds from Canadian Foodgrains Bank.

Journey for Hope Teams New and Old Raise Funds for Food Security

On September 26, 14 teams from three provinces came together to support PWS&D's food security work. The 2026 event was marked by teams new and old stepping up for the cause. In total, this year's event raised over $30,000 to address hunger around the world. Mark your calendar to join the Journey on September 25, 2027! If you have photos or stories from this year's Journey, please email them to Stephanie at schunoo@presbyterian.ca.

Finding Hope in a Youth Club

Through LISAP, young people in Nkhata Bay, Malawi, are gaining opportunities to develop practical skills, return to education, build confidence and make informed choices about their futures. For 23-year-old Easter, that support helped turn a forgotten dream into a new beginning and allowed her to pursue a university degree.
