Serving With Joy

Psalm 100

The Psalms teach us how to maintain a relationship with God through every season of life. It reveals the goodness, faithfulness, and countless blessings of God while offering a glimpse into his relationship with humanity. The Psalms are filled with expressions of worship, praise, thanksgiving, lament, trust, and repentance.

Psalm 100 invites us to worship, praise, and serve the Lord with gladness for he is sovereign, faithful, present, and consistent. Our service is an act of worship which demonstrates our love, obedience, and gratefulness for who he is.

Ushers are the gatekeepers of the house of the Lord and they set the tone. They guard, watch, and maintain order. They should greet the worshipers with a smile and a praise on their lips. People will be blessed by the usher's acts of kindness and how they make one feel upon entering the God’s house.

The Psalm admonishes us to lift up our hands and be lifted up and the king of glory shall come in, for the Lord is our strength.

Our act of service should be one of worship and not done out of obligation. Let it be one of consistency as our heavenly Father is consistent. There is no shadow of turning with him.
